

COMMUNAL SELICHOT SERVICE AT JEWISH COMMUNITY CENTER OF HARRISON

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 8:00PM

Bonfire! S'mores! Friends! Music! Movie! Sounds like a block party? Actually, it's our annual communal Selichot service!

This year's service will take place at the Jewish Community Center of Harrison, located at 130 Union Ave. in Harrison.

Our service, bonfire and s'mores will be followed by a viewing and discussion of Won't You Be My Neighbor, the acclaimed documentary of the life of Fred Rogers whose themes of acceptance, tolerance, courage, honesty and love emanate throughout our High Holy Day season and the entire Jewish Year. Give yourself a boost of love, empathy, and kindness at this season of turning.

Congregation Emanu-El of Westchester, Community Synagogue of Rye, the Jewish Community Center of Harrison, and KTI join together as one community for this special evening.

ROSH HASHANAH DAY 2 NATURE WALK & TASHLICH AT EDITH G. READ SANCTUARY

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 10:15AM

It is in the wilderness where our tradition finds its roots and natural places provide a unique setting to connect to our heritage. The paths of the beautiful Edith G. Read Sanctuary (reached by driving through the Playland parking lot) provide an ideal location for a 45 minute nature walk to consider the world in which we live as we celebrate Creation. This walk is open to all ages and will be a fun, meaningful way to continue the Rosh Hashanah celebration. (Please remember to wear walking shoes.) Following our walk, we move to the beach for the beautiful Tashlich ceremony. See page 7 for details.

2018-19 RELIGIOUS SCHOOL FAMILY LEARNING DAYS

"V'shinantam l'vanecha—and you shall teach them to your children."

The v'ahavta, a prayer which immediately follows the shema, the essential Jewish declaration of God's oneness, in both the Torah and in our prayer book, makes the crucially important statement that we should teach "them" to our children.

"Them", in this context, refers to words of torah—both the stories contained in The Torah, and also the torah of our lives. The torah of our lives includes other Jewish texts, our values, family traditions, communal story, history, culture, etc. The obligation to teach our children is a core Jewish value, and we all repeat these words, "you shall teach them to your children," every time we pray together.

Our re-imagined Family Learning days provide us all, teachers, parents, and students, with the opportunity to live out this most central Jewish value. We all have something to teach, and we all have more to learn. Family Learning will provide students and their families opportunities to learn together, to engage in meaningful conversations, to teach each other, to get to know other families, and build community.

Family Learning will take place around four major moments on our Jewish calendar this year:

Opening Day of Religious School
Sunday, September 16

Chanukah
Sunday, December 2

Passover
Sunday, April 14

Closing Day of Religious School
Sunday, May 19

SHABBAT ON THE BEACH

Despite the heavy rain leading up to Shabbat on August 3, we were given an absolutely gorgeous evening for Shabbat on the Beach at the Edith G. Read Sanctuary in Rye.

We will return to the beach on Tuesday, September 11 at 10:15am for our annual Rosh Hashanah Day 2 Nature Walk followed by Tashlich at 11:00am.

A MESSAGE FROM BOARD PRESIDENT DARREN FOGEL

Dear Congregant,

With the High Holy Days soon upon us, I want to remind and encourage you to support the temple's Annual Fund. Each year dues and school tuition only cover 70% of our operating expenses and we need to make up that deficit.

Contributions to the Annual Fund ensure that we continue to have outstanding clergy lead our services, quality teachers instruct our children, engaging and exciting programming, a wide range of creative and melodic music at our events, and a well-maintained and functioning building campus.

So as you think about your gift for this year, remember that it is your support that helps make us the wonderful temple we are today and the even better temple we will be tomorrow. And for those of you already over 70 ½ and ready to add a little extra, you can donate from your IRA and enjoy an added tax benefit. Please contact our accountant, Denise at 914-967-4382 x14, to arrange for this type of donation.

I look forward to seeing everyone over the High Holy Day season and thank you in advance for your generosity.

Sincerely,

Darren Fogel

THE NUANCE OF ISRAEL

Back in May Israel turned 70. There were many special events to commemorate the occasion: ceremonies and lectures, military processions and parties, Israeli music concerts and poetry readings, and, undoubtedly, a few prayers for the miracle of a modern Jewish state. The celebrations were absolutely appropriate. They also sparked some controversy and some protests. People looked again at the situation in the West Bank and wondered what the future might hold. Concerns about the horrendous conditions in Gaza brought heated discussion to synagogues and JCCs and dinner tables throughout the Jewish community. Aggravation boiled to the surface about the continued official assault on non-Orthodox Judaism in Israel. With all of this, the need was evident for deeper Israel engagement, thoughtful dialogue, education, and awareness.

...our tradition is clear that all Jews are responsible for one another.

To that end, this year's programming theme at Emanu-El is Israel: it's history, people, culture, conflicts, hopes, challenges, dreams, and controversies. This topic is vital for so many reasons. First and foremost, our tradition is clear that all Jews are responsible for one another. So, given that half of the world's Jews live in Israel, we have an important stake in the future of that country. Next, there is seemingly endless controversy about Israel. Given our congregation's culture of civil dialogue and thoughtful debate, Emanu-El can provide a forum for discussion of those controversies that rises above slogans and name-calling. Instead, we will provide a space for people who seek a depth of understanding, people who want to explore a variety of perspectives and viewpoints. The final reason for this focus stems from a search for nuance and complexity. Positions on Israel are often presented with an ideological rigidity that stifles both independent thought and meaningful relationship. Without accepting a position whole cloth, individuals are told that they are out of the fold, anti-Zionist, part of the opposition or, worse, the enemy and self-hating Jews. This is as true on the left as it is on the right. For those of us with a deep commitment to Israel, we are often willing to weather this kind of criticism as we search for an honest understanding of the modern state of Israel and its people. But, for those with more tangential Zionist commitments, this demand of ideological purity can drive them away from Israel and quickly lead to either apathy or antipathy.

What is needed, what we hope to help foster with our year of Israel programming, is an honest and complex relationship with the modern State of Israel and its people. As with any relationship, there will be aspects that are rewarding and joyful. There will also be aspects that are troubling and some which make us angry. But, just as we experience this range of feelings and thoughts in our healthy relationships with people, we ought to accept this variety in our relationship with Israel. Why? Because it is a complicated place with a complicated population of complicated people. In other words, it is a real place: not a biblical wonderland, not a socialist paradise, not a high-tech utopia, or any other stereotype.

For 2,000 years our ancestors prayed in the direction of Jerusalem dreaming one day to return. For the last 70 years we have witnessed the unprecedented miracle of our ancient people reestablished in our ancient homeland. This year, we recommit ourselves to the dreams of our ancestors and the hopes and aspirations of our fellow Jews living in Israel. We do not commit to a blind loyalty or to unrealistic idealism, instead we commit to complexity and nuance, to understanding and questioning. We commit to an honest relationship to a 2,000 year dream made real.

"IF NOT NOW, WHEN?"

In keeping with Hillel's maxim, "If not now, when?", my sister and I decided it was time to take a celebratory trip together. Thanks to a friend who got us a special deal, we spent a glorious week of quality time together cruising down the Danube river, from Budapest to Passau, with a few additional days in Germany.

While it wasn't our specific intention to take a Jewish heritage tour, we encountered many reminders of the millions of European Jews who perished in the Holocaust. In Budapest, along the shore of the lovely Danube, stands a disturbing memorial. Replicas of several pairs of shoes serve as reminders of the Jews who were lined up, sometimes tied together, and told to remove their shoes before young Hungarian Nazi sympathizers shot them into the river.

Those who died in concentration camps are also memorialized in Budapest, at the striking Dohany Street Synagogue, second only to New York's Temple Emanu-El as the largest in the world.

In a garden behind the temple stand 24 mass graves where 2,300 Jews were brought home to Budapest to be buried. Of the 800,000 Jews living in Hungary before the war, 600,000 died, several of our grandmother's relatives, we realized sadly, among them.

We also got a glimpse into other aspects of Jewish life at a brand new Jewish museum. Re-creations of apartments, from lavish to simple, show how Jews lived in Budapest prior to the war, giving an eye into the variety of lifestyles within the Jewish community.

A fascinating highlight of our trip was a day we spent in Nuremberg immersing ourselves in the dark story of this important Nazi stronghold. We followed the history of Hitler's rise at the Documentation Center, witnessing chilling archival films, including clips from Hitler's famed propagandist Leni Riefenstahl. A short bus ride outside the city also took us to the massive, classically styled rally grounds, where hundreds of thousands of citizens convened from all over the country to take part in weeklong Nazi events, complete with Olympic style flames, flags and spectacle. The large scale grandstand, slightly crumbling but still intact, remains, as do other huge structures Hitler built for his regime.

Every choice we make from birth to death matters.

Ultimately more haunting, but in a different way, were film clips of elderly Germans reminiscing about their days as Hitler Youth. These were ordinary people who, in the words of philosopher Hannah Arendt (who coined the term "the banality of evil") were "terribly and terrifyingly normal". "The sad truth," she said, "is that most evil is done by people who never make up their minds to be good or evil."

On the final day of our trip we visited the Judisches Museum in Munich. A special exhibition of Israeli artist, Eran Shakine, son of Holocaust survivors, provided an optimistic uplift. His humorous and poignant "A Muslim, A Christian and A Jew" drawings highlight the similar wishes, hopes and dreams of all peoples, reminding us that we can choose to focus on our similarities more than on our differences.

During the upcoming High Holy Days, we will hear the powerful words of Deuteronomy commanding us to choose life: "I call heaven and earth to witness you today: I have put before you life and death, blessing and curse — therefore choose life." Every choice we make from birth to death matters. The 10 Days of Repentance give us the unique opportunity to reflect on how we live, and each year, to make up our minds, with all our choices, to be good.

ACADEMY: OUR REIMAGINED HIGH SCHOOL PROGRAMS

As educators, we continually strive to engage students in meaningful and fun learning experiences. Our goal is to involve our students in the learning process and to encourage them to become lifelong learners and engaged members in our, and their own, communities.

At Congregation Emanu-El of Westchester, we seek to keep our programming fresh and dynamic. To that end, we have spent time this summer to reimagine the high school programs at CEW. Before embarking on this journey, we reflected on our own Jewish learning experiences as teens—some were wonderful, some less so. We sought to identify the qualities of programs that had the greatest impact on us leading us to where we are today. Jade reflected on her experiences in pre- and post-Confirmation formal learning, as a madricha, and youth group participant: “I loved the opportunities for meaningful, robust, Jewish learning experiences where I had an “aha!” moment, or the opportunity to engage with an idea, person, or activity that I hadn’t experienced before. What I hated was being in a situation where I felt unprepared, like I didn’t understand, or didn’t belong.”

Thinking back to her own experiences, Jane said: “When I didn’t feel challenged or engaged in the learning, I turned off. My worst experiences felt like a waste of time. When the class was dull and the material didn’t seem relevant to my life, I did not want to be there. On the other hand, I loved being involved in planning events, socializing with friends from other schools and taking part in activities that made me feel Jewishly connected.”

Here at Congregation Emanu-El, our MNP, Youth Group, and peer coach programs have been extremely successful in keeping teens engaged in our congregation and community. We are indebted that these programs allow us to move forward to the next step in creating meaningful points of connection for our high school students.

After listening to feedback and ideas from members of this community, we are excited to be launching two new programs for our high school students this year. Our eighth and ninth grade students will be the first to participate in our Academy program. The Academy curriculum is a two-year cycle where students engage with the Jewish holidays and life-cycle rituals like never before. Through interactive, fun, community-building, and engaging learning experiences, eighth and ninth graders will deepen their Jewish knowledge and identity. In addition, as featured in the recent New York Magazine article on the most popular course at Yale, “Psychology and the Good Life,” we will incorporate exciting, cutting-edge practices in positive psychology. Spoiler alert: do not expect to be sitting in your seat. Academy is all about learning through doing!

As our eleventh and twelfth grade students start to think about their futures, we want to give them the tools to live Jewish lives beyond the walls of the CEW religious school. As peer leaders, they will each work with Jane to plan and implement Youth Group social action events and, through peer-to-peer engagement, create welcoming, engaging opportunities for eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grade students to connect with our congregation and the broader Westchester community. In addition to taking on these leadership roles, all of our eleventh and twelfth grade students will also have the opportunity to attend special programs, approximately once a month, to engage in meaningful learning in partnership with local Hillel leaders. Through these interactions, we hope to deepen their understanding of critical issues facing the Jewish people today, such as Israel and BDS, Jewish pluralism, and anti-Semitism.

We are thrilled to be working together and sharing in this experience with your children. We hope that when they look back on their Jewish high school experiences they will feel connected, uplifted, and fulfilled. We look forward to being part of these narratives.

RITUAL CORNER: YIZKOR, IN MEMORY OF OUR LOVED ONES

One of our best attended services each year is the Yom Kippur Yizkor service. At this afternoon service, congregants and community members come together to remember loved ones who are no longer with us. We observe Yizkor not only on Yom Kippur, but also at the end of Sukkot, on Passover, and on Shavuot.

Yizkor finds its roots back in the time of Maccabees (130s BCE) when the Talmud teaches that people would offer sacrifices on behalf of the souls of family members who had died. While several later rabbinic leaders objected to the practice of praying for the dead, it nevertheless gained in popularity over the centuries as people sought to bring comfort to the souls of their dearly departed. The service transformed after a series of pogroms associated with The Crusades decimated Jewish communities across Europe. The names of those who perished were then read at Yizkor services four times a year.

Today, though we still say a prayer for the martyrs of our people, the Yizkor service focuses on our own loved ones. It serves as a sacred vessel for the grief that we feel for friends and relatives who have died in years past. Experiencing those feelings in community lets us know that we're not alone and therefore gives us hope while keeping alive the memory of those people who we have loved and lost.

ENGAGING AGING: HAPPINESS IS A CHOICE YOU MAKE, LESSONS FROM A YEAR AMONG THE OLDEST OLD WITH AUTHOR JOHN LELAND

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 28, 10:00AM

What's the secret to living a fuller, more content life? For John Leland, an award-winning New York Times reporter and author of the New York Times bestseller Happiness Is a Choice You Make: Lessons from a Year among the Oldest Old, the answer came from an unexpected place: from the lives of six people age 85 and up. He expected them to educate him in the hardships of old age. Instead, they taught him lessons of resilience, gratitude, purpose and perspective that apply to people of any age. All had lost something – spouses, mobility, their keen eyesight or hearing. But none had lost everything. And they defined their lives by the things they could still do, not by what they had lost.

John Leland is a reporter at the New York Times, where he wrote a year-long series following six people age 85 and up, which became the basis for his new book, Happiness Is a Choice You Make: Lessons from a Year among the Oldest Old, a New York Times bestseller. Before joining the Times in 2000, he was a senior editor at Newsweek and editor-in-chief of Details magazine.

Books will be available for purchase at the event. RSVP to Marcie at maiuvalasit@c-e-w.org.
